

SOCIALISTS TO TEST KENTUCKY RED LAW

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Seymour Steadman, Socialist nominee for vice-presidency, will deliver an address in Covington, Ky., Friday night to "test out the Kentucky red law" which "Socialists and radicals throughout the country consider the most drastic and unconstitutional of the various state antiradical laws." Socialist national headquarters here announced today.

"Under its provisions," the statement continues, "it appears to be an offense punishable by 21 years imprisonment to urge any change even in the personnel of the government. The Socialists are anxious to make a test case and it is possible that with Mr. Steadman's address the constitutionality of the law will be tested."

The national campaign committee of the party will meet in Atlanta, Ga., Saturday to perfect plans for the final month of the campaign. It was announced. The meeting is being held there so the committee members can confer with Eugene Dabs, presidential nominee, who is a prisoner in Atlanta penitentiary.

AMUSEMENTS

Loew's Lyceum.

As in every other profession, members of one family frequently attain prominence in theatrical circles. In the Loew's Lyceum the last half of the week, in an interesting representative of one of these families. His grandfather, John Carr, was a famous Irish actor; his father, Edward Carr, another light in the world of stage and screen. Of five uncles each obtained more than an ordinary place in stage life, while Eddie himself married into the Carr family, theater owning.

Carr opens in a farce sketch entitled "The Office Boy." It is said to be one laugh after another. The turn is dealt with a typical American subject in a decidedly humorous way.

"Hitchy-Koo."

The one best bet of the whole theatrical season, so far as musical comedies are concerned, is the second edition of Raymond Hitchcock's big musical comedy revue, "Hitchy-Koo," that far-famed hodge-podge of fun, music and girls, which will unfold at the Lyric theater Monday, Tuesday and Tuesday matinee. This production of "Hitchy-Koo" is guaranteed to be the original one direct from its record-breaking run of two solid years in New York, with scenery and costumes absolutely intact, probably accounts for the extraordinary interest this city is taking in the engagement here. In any event, it looks now as if the new "Hitchy-Koo" will be greeted by the biggest audience that has ever turned out to see a road attraction in this city.

The present tour of the new edition of "Hitchy-Koo" began immediately at the end of the sensational run on Broadway. It is from coast to coast and return, and will occupy exactly 62 weeks.

Orpheum

Many popular players have been absent from the stage the last year or two for the simple reason that there was a big job to do, and they were helping to do it. One of these is William Gaxton. Mr. Gaxton has just received his discharge from the navy and is taking up things where he left them, and it again to be seen in vaudeville. William Gaxton is a light comedian of tried and true quality. He has been watched on the billboards of both the vaudeville and the legitimate stage, and in both cases with full measure. His performance in "Kisses," a one-act whimsicality, was one of the delights of the season, and when Douglas Fairbanks quit vaudeville for pictures, it was Mr. Gaxton who replaced him in the principal role of "A Regular Business Man." For his return to his civilian pursuits, a new sketch has been written by Capt. Rupert Hughes, author of "Excuse Me" and any number of successful plays and short stories. This is called "The Junior Partner," and shows the result of romance and business, in which it is demonstrated that the two mix exceedingly well. Mr. Hughes has given Mr. Gaxton a splendid part, and Mr. Gaxton gives Mr. Hughes' playlet a splendid performance.

"I AM MORE GRATEFUL TO Taniae than words can express, for it has given me health and happiness after twelve long years of suffering," was the enthusiastic statement made the other day by Mrs. Olive Peitler, of Vermont.

"I am more grateful to Taniae than words can express for it has given me health and happiness after twelve long years of suffering," was the enthusiastic statement made the other day by Mrs. Olive Peitler, of Vermont.

"I had been troubled so long with nervousness and sleeplessness that my housework was a drive and I got little pleasure out of life. My appetite left me entirely and at times I could hardly bear the sight of food and what little I did eat caused me severe suffering afterward. Gas would form on my stomach so badly that it affected my heart and I thought I had heart trouble."

"I was so nervous I would jump at the least unexpected noise and would drop everything I had in my hands. I got so weak and faint rapidly that I would have to catch hold of something to keep from falling over. My sleep was broken and restless and I was losing weight rapidly. I had little strength or energy and as I had tried all kinds of medicines without relief, I had become very much discouraged over my condition."

"My husband had been taking Taniae and when I saw what wonderful results he was getting I decided to try it myself and now I think as much of Taniae as he does because it has helped me the same way."

"My appetite has come back and everything agrees with me perfectly. I am taking on weight rapidly and have already gained nine pounds; in fact, I feel perfectly well in every way. Taniae has done wonders for me and I am only too happy to tell others about it."

Taniae is sold in Memphis by the following agents: Warnock Drug Company, Weber Pharmacy, Dwyer Turley Drug Company, A. Henkert & Co., two stores; L. H. Kilpatrick, Washington-Turley, Moore's Pharmacy, Taylor & Taylor, three stores; Washington-Turley Drug Company, C. O. Manning and Battler's Pharmacy, adv.

Irish Settlement Plan Is Suggested By Viscount Grey

LONDON, Sept. 20.—Viscount Grey, former ambassador to the United States, in a letter to the Westminster Gazette puts forward new proposals for the solution of the Irish problem. He declares the present home rule bill is not accepted by any one, and says:

"The only practicable policy that offers any prospect of success seems to me to have three cardinal points: First, a definite announcement that for these two islands of Great Britain and Ireland there can be only one foreign policy, one army and one navy, and that we can not stand separately in these matters any more than the North could stand the separation of the South in the United States."

"Second, with this exception Irishmen must be as free as the peoples of the great self-governing dominions to settle for themselves how their country is to be governed."

"Third, to give time for them to come to agreement with each other and draw up their own scheme, the British government will continue to perform as best it can the function of the government in Ireland for a period not to exceed two years, but at the end of that period or sooner, if Ireland is ready, it will withdraw."

Moving Pictures

Strand.

After all, lavish settings and spectacular scenes are not absolute requisites for the truly great motion picture. "Humoresque," on view at the Strand theater this week, is among the big photoplays of the year because it impresses one with its sincerity and intense heart appeal. It is a story of human beings as they are. Tears and laughter intermingle in it as they do in real life. The story of the genius of the violin who, aided by that beautiful gift, mother love, rose from obscurity and poverty to the heights strikes a responsive chord in every heart.

"Humoresque" was adapted from Fannie Hurst's novel of the same name.

Majestic.

Margaret Loomis, one of the most popular leading women on the screen, plays opposite Bryant Washburn in "What Happened to Jones," the Paramount Aircraft comedy drama which will be shown at the Majestic theater the rest of this week. This play was adapted from the famous George Broadhurst comedy success which convulsed Broadway for months.

Princess.

"Under Northern Lights," the thrilling tale of Canadian woods, to be shown at the Princess theater Friday and Saturday, will give local theatergoers the first chance to admire the work of Virginia Fair, who was adjudged the winner in last year's Fame and Fortune contest held in New York city. Everyone no doubt will agree that the judges made no mistake in selecting this young girl, who, besides youth, seems to possess beauty, talent and intelligence.

A Real Quality Cigar.

Announce

Beginning Monday, October 4

A Great Annual Event—the

October Week of Sales

A Substantial Proof to the People of Memphis That

Prices Have Come Down

This is an annual sale, always an event brimful of surprises in the way of undreamed-of economies and new low price records.

This year's sale will be in a class by itself! This is our promise to the many who look to Lowenstein's to set the standard.

We have taken advantage of every break in prices, of every opportunity to purchase below value, when spot cash was urgently needed by the manufacturers. We are now prepared to turn these purchases over to the public with the savings intact.

You will remember the "Week of Sales" long after the event has been brought to a conclusion.

And this is the one outstanding feature of the sale which stamps it as beyond the reach of competition,—there will not be a single article advertised which is not regular Lowenstein quality—not a dollar's worth of inferior "Specials" bought for sales purposes, and which sound enticing in the papers, but are more than disappointing to the purchaser. Remember, there is nothing easier than quoting low prices—the test of merchandising genius lies in value giving. "Buy only after comparison of quality—nothing is more recklessly extravagant than a purchase which cannot be depended upon for service and wear."

B. Lowenstein & Bros

Cotton at 25c

—doesn't mean anything definite to the experienced buyer. There are many grades and qualities of cotton ranging from the short, discolored ordinary variety through all the grades of middling to the long, snow-white staple always in demand and always sure of a market—and of course the prices paid for cotton vary greatly with the quality of the offering—

Silk Hosiery at$2.00
Shoes at$10.00
Sheets at$1.98
Serge at$2.00

and a thousand other such items appearing in the advertising columns daily with alluring descriptions, may or may not be worthy of your notice.

Be discriminating! There are innumerable grades and qualities of merchandise and the cost price varies entirely with the intrinsic worth. Learn to compare—our ever growing number of customers are recruited from the many who have found out from experience that the only economy consists in buying only dependable merchandise of an established grade—and remember, our prices are guaranteed.
